

President's Message

Receiving the Insignia of Office from our Immediate Past President Mr. Peter Y. Y. Ng not only marks a glorious moment for my career being a passionate engineer; but also a responsibility for me to demonstrate and uphold the professionalism that Hong Kong Institute of Construction Managers ('the Institute') has always strived for.

In the past years, Peter and all our former Honorary Presidents have laid down a concrete foundation for the development of the Institute. We are committed to explore reciprocal professional recognitions with our mainland counterparts and broaden our members' horizon. In fact, we planned to enhance our professional services by introducing the Mediation Committee, Expert Witness Committee and the Registration Construction Managers Committee whose strategic development work is underway. There will be more training events with the strengthening of the Internal Affairs function. We do hope that our members can grow and develop their expertise in join hands with the Institute.

Our organizational chart has been updated; members who would like to express your opinions are welcome to send your message to the appropriate committee(s). Feel free to communicate with us via emailing to our Secretariat to handle your enquiries and suggestions.

The work plan in 2012-13 is being drafted and we will upload it shortly.

Members should have by now received the latest Issue of the Institute's Newsletter. Thanks Peter for his sharing of his invaluable experience. We are planning to launch the next issue on our website; members who would like to subscribe to the Newsletter are welcome.

In the coming two years, I and my Council Members are determined to make every effort to achieve our goals. I would like to take this opportunity wishing our members, on behalf of the Council 2012-13, a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

CHUNG Koon-man, Paul
President
2012-13
